Military action in Iraq

Parliament has voted overwhelmingly to authorise air strikes in Iraq at the request of the Iraq Government. 524 MP's, including myself, voted in favour with 43 MP's against

You can read debate in Hansard by clicking here for the link to Parliament's web site and here for the debate though this may not work for a few hours.

Can I thank everyone who has contacted me in the last 24 hours. I have read every email and where possible replied personally.

I would like to assure you that following this afternoon's vote there will now be careful and considered action, not some "shock and awe" campaign. Britain will work with a growing international force including at least five Middle Eastern countries and a number of fellow European countries. We anticipate Australia and Canada will also join the military alliance.

Air strikes will not be authorised if they pose any risk to any civilians - and I know many constituents have been keen to stress the importance of protecting civilians in Iraq.

As the Prime Minister made clear, our campaign to eradicate ISIL includes working with other Middle Eastern countries, assisting Iraq in being an inclusive, democratic society and ensuring their army is an effective combat force on the ground. We will also continue to work with the Kurdish Peshmerga. The campaign includes continuing to take tough measures in the UK to seize the passports from those seeking to join ISIL and working with our Muslim community to stop the spread of extreme jihadist ideology, which runs contrary to the principles of Islam. We will also continue to supply humanitarian aid, which currently stands at £23 million, to help people who have fled from the terror that is ISIL.

Deciding to commit our service men and women to the theatre of war is not taken lightly and I am pleased there was widespread support today for the Government's motion.

I wish you a good weekend.
As ever,
Anna

Cllr. Halimah Khaled "making a stand"

Toton Councillor, Halimah Khaled joined the Home Secretary, Theresa May, as part of the campaign to persuade young Muslims not to support terror groups, like ISIL. Halimah has been doing terrific work in the local Muslim community and "making a stand" is part of the national effort.

New war memorial in Nuthall

On Sunday I attended the dedication of a new War Memorial to honour all of those who lost their lives in the service of our country. The Memorial is in the far corner of Basis Russell playing fields. Canon Barbara Holbrook and Reverend Steve Bennett led the dedication service; the new War Memorial has been erected by Nuthall Parish Council.

Swimming Club closes due to controversial plans

I am sorry to report that the Bramcote Saturday Swimming Club finishes tomorrow, and there are now fears about the future of Kimberley Swimming Club. I have discovered that Broxtowe Borough Council has plans to change current arrangements for our swimming clubs at both Bramcote and Kimberley Leisure Centre.

As a result I met Cllr Ian Tyler and his official to discuss this urgent problem, which has not been debated or even considered by the Council's Councillors.

Ian has agreed to meet all the clubs affected by the proposals and thrash out a mutually acceptable way forward that will ensure the future of our Swimming Clubs. The matter will also be properly debated at Broxtowe's next Cabinet meeting. I fear it is too late to save the Saturday Club but I will continue to do all I can to ensure the future of our remaining great Clubs.

High Road earlier this week

Tram works update

It is difficult to forecast when the roads in Beeston will reopen and it is clear to many that the opening is going to be delayed by many months.

There will be overnight road closures this weekend on Toton Lane and at Bardills island.

I am meeting representatives of TWA to try and resolve the many issues over fencing along the route in Chilwell.

Community champion, Alison Dobbs came to see my at the Constituency Office with a long list of problems that continue to blight life on Lower/Fletcher and Albert Roads. I have raised them all with NET and TWA and will report back to Alison.

Result!

Credit where credit is due. A constituent missed his Intercity coach because of the tramworks, which delayed his Trent Barton bus. We wrote to Trent Barton asking for advice. Even though it wasn't their fault they have paid out to compensate the hapless traveller. Well done Trent Barton and thank you!

Kingsbridge Way meeting

Thank you to everyone who attended Tuesday evening's meeting. The campaign continues to save the respite unit from closing and I am pleased to see local County Councillors Richard Jackson and Steve Carr working together in an effort to reverse the County's decision.

More good news for Stapleford

A new shop opens in Stapleford this coming week. "Tailored for you" offers an alteration service and bespoke tailoring at 13, Nottingham Road. I wish Amy all success in her venture, which is a small independent business and a sign that Stapleford's fortunes are on the up!
