Anna Soubry MP working hard for Broxtowe

www.annasoubry.org.uk

E-newsletter | November 7 2014

It's an honour to be your MP and I am also very proud to be the Minister for Veterans - especially at this time of the year. The commemorations to mark the start of World War1, have raised the recognition and thanks for the great sacrifices made by generations of soldiers, sailors and airmen and women. I believe they have raised even higher, the regard and respect for our serving men and women and their families.

In my time as your MP I have seen the crowds grow at the Remembrance Sunday civic ceremony in Beeston and am told it's the same throughout Broxtowe.

Blood Swept Lands and Sea of Red

It was a great honour this summer to plant one of the ceramic poppies that now fill the moat at the Tower of London. The other weekend Neil and I joined the huge crowds that had flocked not just to admire this stunning commemoration but also to pay tribute to the 888,246 men from Britain and the Commonwealth who gave their lives in the First World War.

I was one of many who asked the Treasury, in effect, to pay back the VAT on the ceramic poppies; I am very pleased the Chancellor has agreed, which will mean an extra £1.1 million to the military charities who will benefit from this remarkable project.

I fear there is no prospect of extending the display which will be dismantled after Tuesday, which is Armistice Day. I bought a couple of the poppies some time ago and would happily delay receipt but the dispersal to thousands of homes is all part of the project.

I very much hope you will be able to join this year's Remembrance Sunday events throughout the constituency. I always go to the main civic event in Beeston and have already asked (and been assured) that the tram works will not impede the parade to the War Memorial and then to the Church.

Since my election I have asked constituents to represent me at the other ceremonies in Broxtowe. So for example, the family of John McGrath and William Barnard laid a wreath in Stapleford a few years ago. I thought I would list everyone who is representing me this year:

Kimberley - Alex Cargill, Broxtowe's Member of the Youth Parliament. Nuthall - Parish Councillor Stephen Green. Awsworth - Councillor Lydia Ball. Cossall - Harry Pike. Greasley - Councillor Mick Brown. Stapleford - Town Councillor John Longdon. Trowell - Borough and County Councillor Ken Rigby. I hope you will join them.

You may be interested in why I was so keen to ask Cllr Stephen Green to represent me at Nuthall as reported in the Eastwood and Kimberley Advertiser.

Broxtowe Schools get record funding

I am delighted to learn that Broxtowe's Primary Schools are receiving a record £285,000 this coming year for the provision of sport. Every school receives on average £9,000 to spend on sport and as a result, the amount of time children are playing sport is increasing. Schools are reporting that pupils are healthier, working harder and discipline is improving.

Field Farm planning permission granted by Broxtowe Borough Council

On Tuesday, Broxtowe Borough Council issued outline planning permission for up to 450 houses at Field Farm in Stapleford, which is Green Belt land. This was done without any further discussion at committee and gives the go-ahead to Westerman Homes to submit detailed housing plans. This is despite widespread opposition to the housing development on the site, both in Stapleford and indeed throughout Broxtowe; for example many Trowell residents are concerned development on the site will exacerbate flooding in the area.

I have organised public meetings and debates in Parliament, there have been petitions and protests, but the Labour/Lib Dem coalition who control Broxtowe have refused to listen. No doubt voters will remember in next May's elections that every Stapleford Borough Councillor voted for development on Field Farm

Yet the fight still goes on and I hope you will join me, STRAG, Stapleford Community Group and the "Save our Green Belt Campaign Group" in fighting these plans.

Brownfield development good to go in the Rylands

Meanwhile plans to build 285 homes and new sports facilities on the old Plessey site in Beeston Rylands are now reaching a conclusion, with a decision to be made by Broxtowe Borough Council's Development Control Committee next Wednesday 12th November. The full agenda, including proposals for the site, can be seen by clicking here.

In the last year, I have raised local residents' concerns with the developers who I am pleased to say have been willing to listen and have amended their plans accordingly. Now I hope the Borough Council will allow this development to go ahead which will bring homes, regeneration and good sports facilities to brownfield land!

Working for you in Parliament

Two important pieces of legislation made their final passages through Parliament this week. The Modern Slavery Bill has not attracted much media attention, mainly because there is little opposition to it. The cross party support meant there was no vote at the third reading and it has now gone to the House of Lords. The recall of MPs Bill is due back in for further debate but much of it is now not contentious.

I know the links to Hansard mean you have to scroll down to read the various speeches but I hope you think it worth the effort. The Modern Slavery Bill is a particularly good piece of legislation which will go along way to protect the victims of this despicable trade in human beings.

Calling all musicians and film makers!

Entries for this year's "Rock the House" and "Film the House" competitions are now open.

Founded by Mike Weatherley MP, these annual competitions are an opportunity for local musicians and film-makers to be recognised. Judged by the leading lights of industry, with prizes ranging from festival slots, studio time, top-notch equipment, and your work premiered in London's West End, the Rock the House and Film the House competitions are a pioneering opportunity to showcase what Broxtowe has to offer, whilst raising awareness about the importance of Intellectual property to our creative industries and country.

For more information and for details of how to apply please visit the Rock the House web site or the Film the House web site and if you do apply please let me know!
